Investigating the Marketing of Micro-insurance Products in South Africa

Zaheenah B. Chummun¹ and Christo A. Bisschoff²

¹School of Accounting, Economics and Finance, University of KwaZulu-Natal Westville Campus, Private Bag X54001, Durban 4000, South Africa, Telephone: +27 74 281 0500; E-mail: zaina.khan499@gmail.com
²Potchefstroom Business School, North-West University, Private Bag X6001, Potchefstroom, 2520, South Africa, Telephone: +27 18 299 1411; E-mail: christo.bisschoff@nwu.ac.za

KEYWORDS Funeral Life Cover, Zimele-compliant, Low-income Households, Financial Exclusion, Business Success.

ABSTRACT This study aimed to identify and investigate the marketing mix of the funeral Zimele-compliant micro-insurance product and its influence on business success of micro-insurance firms in South Africa. The influence of marketers’ efforts to address the challenge of financial inclusion to the low-income households in South Africa with regards to microinsurance on business success were explored in the study. A convenience sample of 173 out of 200 employees completed the questionnaires at two biggest insurance companies namely; Old Mutual South Africa and Hollard Insurance, offering micro-insurance products and services in Port Elizabeth was used. The responses signified a satisfactory rate of 86.5%. The findings revealed the mean values for all independent variables generating business success unsatisfactory results (below 60%). The research is of value to insurers, micro-insurers, marketing managers, academics and researchers.