

Genetic Markers: Colour Blindness and Taste Sensitivity Among People in India*

M.K. Bhasin and H. Walter

Department of Anthropology, University of Delhi, Delhi 110 007, India

KEYWORDS Colour Blindness. Taste Sensitivity. Castes. Tribes. India. Selection

ABSTRACT The discipline of Biological Anthropology (or Human biology) incorporates study of biology and environmental factor, as well as the forces of micro-evolution leading to macroevolution, which ultimately influences the biological structure of human populations. In the present paper an attempt has been made to study the distribution of colour blindness and tasting ability among the people of India, which are analysed in relation to ecological, socio-economic and linguistic factors.