

HIV/AIDS Interventions: A Panacea for Occupational Safety in the 21st Century

Musa O. Anavberokhai

*Department of Physical and Health Education, Faculty of Education, Ambrose Alli University, P.M.B. 14, Ekpoma, Edo State, Nigeria
Telephone: 08055512281, E-mail: musaanavberokhai@yahoo.com*

KEYWORDS Health. HIV/AIDS. Educational and Counseling Services. Employer/Employee Relationships

ABSTRACT This paper highlighted the dangerous liaison between HIV/AIDS and occupational safety. The basic characteristics of HIV/AIDS: its effects on Health, the various intervention strategies and the relationship between HIV/AIDS and occupational safety were outlined. Finally, it was recommended among others that educational and counseling services be provided in work places irrespective of HIV/AIDS status to reduce risk-taking behaviour; encouraging the development of policies and programmes that integrate HIV/AIDS education in Employer/Employee relationships.