

Statistical Analysis of Gene Frequencies for Mothers and Babies

K. Senthamaraikannan[#], D. Nagarajan^{*} and P. Arumugam[#]

[#] Manonmanium Sundaranar University, Department of Statistics, Tirunelveli, India

^{*} St. Jopseph's College of Engineering, Chennai 119, Tamil Nadu, India

E-mail: dnrmsu2002@yahoo.com

KEYWORDS Bernstein's Methods, Maximum Likelihood Estimation, Score Methods.

ABSTRACT This paper analysis the estimation of the gene frequencies and stationary distributions. This paper also compares the findings with maximum likelihood estimates and score methods. The homogeneity of mothers and babies blood groups are examined whether the frequencies in each groups are in accordance with Bernstein's hypothesis and test or the gene frequencies are the same in all population are also analysed.